Five Power Naval Treaty Will Pass

UNANIMOUS APPROVAL MAY BE GIVEN NAVAL LIMITATION BY U. S. SENATE IS BELIEF AS VOTING TIME NEARS

Washington, D. C., March 29.—The Senate may give unanimous approval today to the five-power treaty limiting naval armament, Republican leaders stated as the Senate met to begin the final three hours debate on the pact. With the vote set for three o'clock this afternoon no Senator has as yet announced his determination to vote against it. The United States will be the first nation to ratify the treaty which, after the other nations have approved it, will start to inaugurate a world-wide scrapping of battleships.

BOMBERS THREATEN PUSSYFOOT JOHNSON

Green Bay, Wis., March 29.—William E. (Pussyfoot) Johnson, American liquor crusader, was guarded today following an attempt to bomb a meeting he was to address. The bomb was thrown into the Union Congressional Church as the audience was waiting for Johnson to appear last night. Frank Walker, one of the audience, saw smoke curling from an internal machine in the aisle and realizing the danger seized the bomb and threw it into the street. The bomb proved to be a "dud." Walker was slightly burned. Johnson addressed the meeting later on. "I have no fears," he said, pointing to his eye which was burned in a demonstration against him in England.

IRISH RIOTERS THROW ROCKS AT POLICE

Belfast, Ireland, March 29.—Irish border war broke out today when a large force of Sinn Feiners entered Belcoo in County Fermanagh, and stoned the police barracks. The Ulster constables holding the barracks were made prisoners.

Mine Worker Wants The Golden Rule Applied In Mine Wage Settlement For Central District

Just at the moment when indications point to a slow but gradual resumption of business, we are confronted by what promises to be a bitter and prolonged struggle between the union mine workers of the country on the one hand and the mine operators on the other. With-out going into the merits or demerits with points at issue on either side of the controversy, we are safe in reiterating the broad principle, that "Labor and Capital" are essential to each other—their interests are mutual, they stand or fall together—hence it follows as a sequence that each are justly entitled to their share of the proceeds or wealth produced by their combined efforts. Just how and in what proportion this allotment would be would have to be worked out by men well grounded in the science of Economics.

Any system of bargaining "collectively" or otherwise, that fails to recognize the basic principles of truth or justice, that tries "to drive a hard bargain" spells failure. It settles nothing.

It would seem as the dear bought experience would teach employer and employees the utter folly of resorting to the "Strike or Lockout" method as a settlement of any industrial dispute real or imaginary. Whether the impending strike continues over a period of days or months it means loss and suffering beyond computation for every man, woman and child throughout the nation.

ILLINOIS MINERS AND OPERATORS MEET

Chicago, Ill., March 29.—Doubts that the coal miners' strike called for April 1st would be averted were expressed here today as union officials and operators met in joint session. The miners, headed by Frank Farrington, leader of the Illinois union miners, met with mine owners in his territory. Both Farrington and Charles Hammond, Secretary of the Illinois mine operators association, were pessimistic over the probable result of the conference.

DEBS WILL AGAIN LEAD SOCIALISTS

Terra Haute, Ind., March 29.—Eugene V. Debs was preparing for battle here today. Debs said he was ready to assume active leadership of the Socialist party. The veteran leader, a five-time candidate for the presidency, will go to Cleveland to attend the national convention of Socialist supporters April 29th. "Only my health, which has not been so good of late, can prevent me from engaging in active work for the party," Debs announced.

Raymond Fulton, of Pittsburgh, attended the funeral of H. J. Flegal.

ROUND TABLE HEADS DISCUSS PROBLEMS OF STATE EDUCATORS

Superintendents And Principals Of Cen. Pa. Schools Attend Lock Haven Convention.

44,900 PA. TEACHERS

Superintendents and principals of schools from Northumberland, Union Snyder, Lycoming, Clinton, Centre, Blair, Elk, Potter, Cameron and Clearfield counties gathered at the Lock Haven State Normal School Friday afternoon last, for the round table conference which opened at 3 o'clock. At the afternoon session, Miss Jessie Scott Himes, director of the kindergarten and primary groups in the Normal Training School gave a demonstration of the project method of teaching.

An address setting forth the policy of the state department of public instruction in the certification of teachers, by Dr. Francis B. Haase, assistant director of the teacher bureau, featured the Friday evening session. Pointing out that there are 44,000 teachers in the state of Pennsylvania, of whom 10,000 are in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, Dr. Haase declared that of the 34,000 remaining, approximately 15,000 have less than the least accepted amount of professional training, while 4,000 of these have had less than an eighth grade elementary education. The remaining ten or eleven thousand he added, have had less than a high school education and two years Normal school training.

The salary act, he explained, provides that every teacher within the state must have had four years' High School training and two years' Normal school training, the latter being represented by seventy semester hours or credits. In order to do justice to teachers who have taught for many years and who have neither acquired permanent state certificates nor had the required training, four semester hours would be credited for each year's successful teaching, up to a maximum of sixty. Thus, a teacher who has taught successfully for fifteen years, would have only ten credits to make up. In cases where there is any possible doubt, Dr. Haase added, the policy of the department is that the interpretation shall be in favor of the teacher. General discussion of the question followed the address.

ARMY REDUCTION BILL APPROVED BY HOUSE—125,000 MEN

Washington, D. C., March 29.—Reduction of the army to 115,000 enlisted men and 11,000 officers was approved by the House today when it passed the $375,000,000 army appropriation bill.

At present the army enlisted strength is about 150,000. The reduction was voted in the face of President Harding's strong objections to such a drastic cut.

TENNESSEE AGAIN SUFFERS FROM FLOOD

Memphis, Tenn., March 29.—Three hundred and fifty flood fighters today worked swiftly to prevent the steadily rising Mississippi river from flooding thousands of acres of farm land. Although the river was well past the 42 foot stage today, Harry N. Farr, Chief Levee Engineer, expressed his belief that it would stay within the safe stage of 45 feet. The crisis in the situation will be reached Saturday, Farr said.

Misses Edith and Ruth Ericson and Mrs. Irl B. Calvin spent today in DuBois with relatives and friends.

COMMUNITY SERVICE SHOULD BE OF GREAT BENEFIT TO TOWN

Gives Opportunity For Development Of Local Talent In Public Welfare Activities.

TO TRAIN LEADERS

One of the first items in the program of Clearfield Community Service will be the opportunity to become leaders in social or playground recreation through a recreation institute.

A most valuable way in which the national Community Service organization helps local communities in their organization and development is through institutes to train volunteer leaders in various recreational fields. By assignment of men or women who are specially trained in the theory and technique of community music, community drama or social and playground recreation to a city for two or three weeks, an opportunity is given to all interested to learn how to become leaders in these departments of community work. Particularly has it been found valuable for schools, churches, social organizations and clubs to send representatives who can as a result of the training become leaders in their groups. Such a movement as Community Service can be of value in proportion to the number of volunteers willing to give time to service in their neighborhood and community.

Mr. Zerfoss, President of Clearfield Community Service announced today that such an institute for the training of leaders in social recreation and playground activities will be held in Clearfield soon after Easter. It is important that all who are interested in the development of a program of constructive leisure time activities in Clearfield give thought to taking advantage of this opportunity. It will be necessary for much of the guidance and leadership on the playgrounds this summer to be by volunteers. Also, such a course with the experience it brings, may lead to the discovery of latent talent along the lines of this vocation, which is an important field in our cities at the present time.

More complete details regarding the institute will be announced in the Progress in the near future.

MOUNT ETNA AGAIN IN VIOLENT ERUPTION

Rome, Italy, March 29.—Mount Etna is in violent eruption with streams of fiery lava pouring down the mountain side threatening many towns with destruction, according to despatches received from Palermo today. Several earthquake shocks have been felt in the region of Palermo and Messina.

SIAMESE TWINS WILL LIKELY RECOVER

Chicago, Ill., March 29.—Hope for the recovery of Rosa and Josefa Blazek, the Siamese twins suffering from jaundice, was held out by physicians at the West End Hospital here today. Although both were in a stupor, Dr. Edward Cunat declared that it was not at all unusual for persons suffering from that complaint to spend several days in that condition and then recover. It will probably take four days to determine whether or not the twins will survive.

Mr. and Mrs. Nial Rook and two little daughters have returned to their home in Indiana after spending the past week with Mr. Rook's mother, Mrs. Nettie Rook on Walnut street.

ROTARIANS PRAY FOR SICK MEMBER AT CONVENTION

Delegates To Johnstown Remember Dr. Free Of DuBois, Taken Ill On Convention Eve.

LOCAL MEN THERE

Johnstown, March 28.—The first business session of the Sixth District Rotary club conference was held this morning in the Cambria theatre shortly after the opening of the session. An announcement was made of the critical illness of Dr. Spencer Free, of DuBois, and at the request of District Governor Roy Neville, of Sharon the assemblage observed one minute of silent prayer for their Brother Rotarian. [This was a most impressive feature of the day's program.]

The Rotarians were welcomed to the city by president Harry Kesselbein, of the local club. The response was made by former District Governor, Dr. Richard Aspinall, of Buckhannon, W. Va. District Governor Nevill then gave a brief but forcible address in which he expressed his pleasure at seeing such a gratifying assemblage of delegates and visitors. H. J. Luthes Stark, of Orange, Texas, was the principal speaker at the morning session.

Invitations for the 1923 convention were extended by Charlestrn, W. Va., and McKeesport, Pa. The various special reports of the past year were read at the afternoon session. The principal speakers were John Z. Miller, of Erie, and Thomas P. Bailey, of Huntingdon, W. Va.. At the afternoon session a telegram was read by Jack Leppert, convention Secretary, from Dr. Free, expressing his appreciation of the honor conferred upon him at the morning session, concerning which action he had been advised by wire.

The crowning social event of the convention was staged tonight when more than one thousand Rotarians and their wives attended a big reception and dinner in the New Nathan building, which has been thrown open for the occasion. Elaborate preparations were made for this affair and it is to be the most successful event in the annals of the Sixth District. A

STATE LEADERS SEEK PARTY HARMONY IN REPUBLICAN RANKS

Philadelphia, Pa., March 29.—Efforts of Republican leaders conferring here on harmony within the organization were centered today on the Pinchot candidacy. The first consideration was to find a man to beat Pinchot, the second was the question which leaders were venturing actually to face for the first time today, should the organization get together, accept Pinchot as the Republican candidate for Governor and make the best of it. The announced elimination of John A. Bell from the Senatorial race last night was accepted as the solution of the general Republican problem which leaders have come here to settle. With George Wharton Pepper, of Philadelphia and Major David A. Reed, of Pittsburgh, practically uncontested Republican candidates for United States Senators the party council here has at least one great worry off its mind.

NATION FACES COMING COAL STRIKE WITH GREATEST RESERVE STOCK OF COAL SINCE RECORD-BREAKING SUPPLY AT END OF WAR

Washington, D. C., March 29.—The nation faces the nation-wide tie-up, due to go into effect at midnight Friday, with a coal reserve equal to the record-breaking supply on hand at the signing of the armistice. These figures explain why the Federal government is not viewing the threatened walk-out with alarm. Figures compiled reveal the fact that the nation is in a better condition than ever before to withstand a coal strike. The huge reserve is sufficient to supply the nation for fifty-two days if the present rate of consumption is continued. The soft coal supply held by consumers on March 1st was 52,500,000 tons.

COLD WAVE HEADED FOR THIS SECTION

Washington, D. C., March 29.—A springtime cold wave will strike the entire northeast portion of the country tonight, the Weather Bureau predicted today. Snow is forecast for northern and eastern Pennsylvania, New York, Michigan, Northern Ohio and a cold wave predicted for other parts of this region.

TEX RICKARD WAS FOUND NOT GUILTY

New York, N. Y., March 29.—Tex Rickard, freed by a jury at 12:19 o'clock today of charges of improper relations with several young girls, will spend the rest of his life running down the instigators of what he declares to have been a blackmail plot. Beyond remaining in New York and looking after his interests, Rickard has not made any definite plans. The boxing commission which had suggested that Rickard give up his position at Madison Square Garden, will have no objection if he wishes to resume his former place.

Livestock Development Is The Greatest Need Of Clearfield County Farmers, Says Expert

BY
ERED RASMUSSEN
Secretary of Agriculture,
Of Pennsylvania

Following a visit to Clearfield County last week, when he was able to study conditions at first hand and when he conferred with the leading agriculturists and bankers of the county, Secretary of Agriculture Fred Rasmussen prepared a statement dealing with the agriculture of the county and touched upon the things needed if the agriculture of the county is to progress.

Secretary Rasmussen in the statement, endeavoring to point out that livestock is the backbone of the agriculture of Clearfield County and that therefore the development of the livestock industry is the greatest problem facing the farmers of the county. "Hay is the most valuable crop in Clearfield County," says the Secretary's statement. "Statistics show that in 1921 there were 35,210 acres of hay in the county while the total acreage of wheat, corn, rye, oats, buckwheat and barley was only 45,876. The value of last year's hay crop was $841,519 while the combined grain crops had a value of $1,006,325.

"Cattle and sheep have the ability to turn hay and grass into human food. It is natural, therefore, to find that Clearfield County has 12,865 head of cattle, of which 7,536 are dairy cows. There are approximately 2,000 sheep in the county.

RUSSIAN ROYALISTS ARRESTED IN BERLIN

Berlin, Ger., March 29th.—Hundreds of suspects in what Berlin Police believe to be a world wide plot of Czarist sympathizers to murder Russian sympathizers were arrested here today. All railroad stations were blocked and a mysterious automobile believed to contain several persons implicated in the murder of Paul Miliukoff was being trailed by secret police on motorcycles. Lieutenant Schabelski, of Bork, was arrested today for the shooting in Philharmonic Hall last night in which an attempt to slay Miliukoff resulted in the death of V. Nabokov.

CENTRAL COAL MEN PREPARING SCALE

Altoona, Pa., March 29th.—Central Pennsylvania Coal operators were in session heretoday preparing a scale of wages which will be posted in their mines tomorrow. Operators say they will reduce wages. Although 75 per cent of the miners in this district are organized, the operators declare they are prepared for the threatened strike.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Cuyper, ex-Surveyor, were in town on business yesterday.

Livestock Development Is The Greatest Need Of Clearfield County Farmers, Says Expert

"There are less than three hogs to every farm in Clearfield county. The pig follows the corn belt. Many sections of Clearfield county are not adapted for corn and what corn can be grown is used more economically in the silo as feed for cattle than in the use of the grain for the commercial production of pork.

"The most valuable asset of Clearfield county from an agricultural point of view, is the pasture, together with the hay and forage crops combined with the livestock. Poor cows and poor livestock not only give you no profit on the money invested in the livestock, nor any return for the care of the livestock but they give you no returns for the days and hours of toil in the fields raising crops to feed the livestock.

"Poor cows and poor crops never give a profit. Poor cows and good crops seldom give a profit. Good cows and poor crops may break even. Good crops and good cows make the only successful combination and this is the key to success in dairy farming.

"That the people of Clearfield county appreciate the livestock industry is evident from the fact that they have in the county a Livestock Growers' Auxiliary Association. That there is an appreciation of the fact that high class stock is of greater value, not only to the farmer but to the entire community is shown by the Interest the bankers of the county are taking in the movement. The improvement of the livestock in Clearfield county is a community problem and the farmers in the county will succeed in improving their livestock in proportion to the degree in which they work together.

"When small herds exist a rapid improvement in the livestock is seldom brought about except through bull associations or the co-operative ownership of bulls. Bull Associations are not in the experimental stage. For more than forty years such organizations have been in operation in older dairy countries and have been recognized as one of the principal factors in bringing about the high production of the cattle of Holland, Denmark, Switzerland and other countries. There are also many such organizations in the United States today.

"One of the reasons for a slow progress in the improvement of cattle in many sections is the fact that to buy even one or two purebred, females and also have the use of a purebred bull requires ready money. Furthermore an investment in purebred cattle is a long time investment. In the purchase of a purebred bull to increase the production per cow in the herd, it becomes three or four years before the offspring becomes a producer. Also where a man purchases one or two females with the idea of developing a purebred herd, it takes several years before there will be any surplus stock for sale. There are many farmers who have considerable in the way of assets but little available cash. The fact that chattel mortgages are not legal in this state makes it difficult for the farmer to gain tangible securities for bank loans. A great deal of money is loaned on the basis of personal acquaintance, character and industry.

"Too many farmers think of the bank as a place to deposit money when there is a surplus but do not think of the bank as a place to borrow when money is needed for permanent business improvement. Every farmer should make a confidant of his banker in his business matters and together they may work out problems that appear very difficult. Recently in one section of this state, many thousand of dollars worth of worthless stock was sold to the farmers. If these farmers had asked the advice of their local bankers it is safe to say that none of them would have made the investment.

"A businessman or manufacturer who desires to make a short term loan at the bank submits to the banker his financial statement which shows his assets and liabilities. If such a practice were followed in agriculture it would greatly improve the credit facilities of the farmer as the banker would be better able to judge at the risk.

"It is my opinion that some bankers have been as greatly at fault as the farmer in not having established a satisfactory business relation. This may be due to the fact that many bankers do not understand factors in agriculture which needs encouragement or fully appreciate the effect on the whole life of the community, of a progressive agriculture. Consequently the farmer does not have the faith in agriculture which spurs him on to seek the new business.

A joint meeting of farmers and bankers, such as you had last week in Clearfield speaks well for the future development of the livestock industry of the county. It will prove one agency of the greatest advantage, along with your County Farm Bureau. Your Farm Bureau is seeking to solve these problems of agriculture which are of purely local character. Other agencies, such as the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and the Federal Department are working on the broader problems, but the Farm Bureau is the medium through which the results obtained by these agencies are brought to the farmer.

"The businessmen of the county, too, should be interested in the success of your agriculture, for man's two greatest needs—food and clothing, are products of agriculture and without a plentiful supply of these, industry lags. An unsuccessful agriculture cuts the purchasing power of the farmer, and when one-third of our population has no money to buy all business is seriously affected. "Agriculture, business and industry must advance together. The more highly specialized the agriculture becomes the closer becomes the interrelation between agriculture and other business enterprises of the county, and I feel certain there has never been in this country before, this time, as general an understanding as there is today of the fact that upon the development of a progressive agriculture depends the future welfare and stability of the country.

MINE WORKERS WANT

responsible for the statement that fifteen thousand professional Labor Leaders are filching sixty million dollars out of the pockets of the wage earners of the United States each year. In a former article we made a brief allusion to one or more industries which had adopted the profit sharing plan with their employees. In one of the instances cited the plan extended over a period of 11 years—it had proved to be a splendid success. Fine co-operating effort between men and management. What had formerly been a losing concern was put on a paying basis. No strikes or lockouts. Wages increased 100 per cent and every one of the ten thousand employees owned stock in the concern, are now boosters, where formerly they were knockers. These are some of the outstanding features. There are others, but lack of space and time will not permit us to touch upon them.

What has been accomplished by the Phila. Rapid Transit Co., can be accomplished by the operators and the miners if they will but sink their differences and get together to work as they should in peace and harmony. The coal industry would be revolutionized, no strikes, no lockouts, no checkouts, no professional Labor Leaders, no "drones" in the industrial hive, but each one doing his utmost in hearty co-operation to curtail expenses, promote efficiency, increase production and also the dividends which would follow as surely as night follows the day. Placing the number of union miners in the country at six hundred thousand, assuming as John L. Lewis does that one third of this number have been out of work for a year and the other two thirds have averaged half time. On this basis a strike lasting 13 weeks at $7.50 per day per man would mean a wage loss of twenty-seven million dollars—and this is only one item of the expense.

The pending strike bears such a close resemblance to the strike of the British coal miners of last summer that it might not be amiss "To Stop, Look and Listen" while we rehearse some of the outstanding facts, for it is a fragment of history with which every American should be familiar. In Britain, as in our country coal played an important role during the World War. "Coal is life," said Lloyd George so the war machine had to be kept "going full steam ahead" the miners across the pond, like their brethren on this side got about every thing they asked for "They" became drunk with power. When the armistice was signed they demanded nationalization, administration by the State, the abolition of all competition, a share in the profits and a pooling arrangement whereby the well paying mines of one section should make good the losses occasioned by the poor paying mines of another section. As the British mine workers were members of a triple alliance which also included the transport workers and the dockers, by bringing in a general strike they imagined it would be easy to paralyze industry and thus coerce the mine owners, and secure control. With agitators in the saddle—the revolution. As one writer has said, "What was hailed as the fiery cross of revolt was lighted only to fizzle out in the darkness of defeat." The Government was equal to the emergency and met force with force. One million two hundred and fifty thousand workers were engaged in the strike which lasted 94 days—the fight was lost, the men went back to work with heavy hearts, they had been taught the lesson that "Bolshevism" had no place in organized labor. The miners lost seventy million working days, which cost Britain 58 million tons of coal, the workers forfeited 250 million of dollars in wages while the total money loss including the losses of other industries exclusive of the railroads was approximately one and one half billion of dollars "What fools we mortals be."

MODERN PROBLEMS CLUB

The Modern Problems Club of the Clearfield High School held their regular meeting Tuesday.

The first number on the program was a talk on "The Value of Preparation for Teaching," by Dorothy E. Dietzel. She brought out many interesting points on the subject. Phillip D. Watts then spoke on "Recent Inventions," "Economic and Uneconomic Ways of Acquiring Wealth" was the topic chosen by Edith Underwood.

Mrs. C. L. Kopp then gave a very interesting discussion on "The Principles of Debating." He instructed the Club in both the preparation and delivery of a debate.

Last week the Debating Team was chosen. Those selected to uphold Clearfield's honor at Puxcawney are: Harry Katzman, James Perdon, and Audrey Hyde. Alternative, William Chase.

Not at All a Bad Idea

Just as tugboats and American Legion posts and suburban streets are named in memory of persons who have been associated with them, so wedding gifts are designated by the name of the giver. When the bride calls to hubby from the kitchen for the "company" silver, she asks for "Aunt Gertrude's" soup ladle or "Jack's" tea strainer, or "Mother Jones'" tea cup set. And hubby may inquire impatiently for the hand-worked towels "that Auntie sent us." Of course, the system may also be used to flatter some old flame who happens to be calling.

Re-Cover Before The Spring Rush

There's going to be a grand rush for this sort of work if the weather keeps like it has for the past few days. Spring housecleaning is going to be uppermost in the minds of the housewives and this housecleaning brings to light furniture that needs to be re-covered and re-upholstered.

Have arrangements made so that you avoid the rush and so that you avoid the disappointing intelligence, "No, your work isn't done yet. It was caught in the rush." Arrange to avoid this rush.

Preserve Eggs While Price Is Low

Eggs are lower now than they will be later on so we suggest that you use some of our water glass to preserve them against the time when the price is rising with a dollar a dozen. Our water glass preserves them so that they will keep indefinitely and you have eggs at your command whenever you want them at a lower price.

district governor will be nominated at the session tomorrow afternoon. Special to The Progress.

Johnstown, Pa., March 29.—With the election of a district Governor late this afternoon, the 1922, two day conference of the International Rotary Clubs of the Sixth District will come to a close. A feature of today's business session was the rejection by the conference of a special committee report recommending that the present district be divided into two new districts, the Pennsylvania, state boundary to be dividing line. The West Virginia delegates opposed the division.

The following candidates were nominated for Governor this morning: Anthony W. Smith of Pittsburgh; Charles Hodges, of Morgantown, W. Va.; J. E. Naylor, of Wheeling, W. Va.; John E. Norman of Huntington, W. Va., and Roy Yoke, of Weston, W. Va.

The big social event of the conference was staged last night when more than one thousand Rotarians and their wives attended a big dinner and reception in the new Nathan building. This was conceded to be the biggest affair in the annals of the Sixth District and the largest banquet ever staged in Johnstown.

Cornelia Parkhill Reeve of Clearfield, rendered a pleasing vocal selection at the program following the dinner. H. J. Leitcher was the principal speaker.

A total of 43 Rotarians from Clearfield were registered at the convention today, the Clearfield special will leave here this evening.

Illinois Operators And Miners Fail To Agree

Chicago, Ill., March 29.—The meeting of Illinois mine operators and union representatives here today failed in its efforts to avert the strike of coal miners set for April 1st. After a session of nearly an hour the conference adjourned, subject to call. It was said that the meeting was merely a formal session held to comply with the present contracts requirements and that no progress towards making a separate peace in Illinois in the coal war was made.

Many people are of the opinion that the American people talk of nothing but booze, spending their daylight hours figuring how to get "some of the old stuff" and their evening hours drinking it.

The bootlegging business as at present constituted is, of course, a disgrace to the nation. But those critics of the prohibition law who believe that all the deceit, the contempt for law and the serious results which follow the drinking of bootleg booze are due solely to prohibition will find, if they look about a bit, still larger number of people who disagree with them.

The spirit of lawlessness was growing before the days of the Volstead Act. People with self-respect, with law-abiding tendencies and a reasonable sense of the dignity of citizenship, do not disobey this law any more than they did any previous ones. There are thousands and thousands of homes where the only difference since the prohibition law went into effect is the substitution, on the shelf of the medicine closet, of the two-ounce bottle of aromatic spirits of ammonia for the four-ounce bottle of brandy or whisky which used to stand there, year on end, used only in serious emergencies, and then measured by the tablespoonful.

There are thousands of other homes with growing boys and girls in them where the parents give devout thanks for the removal of the temptation of the corner saloon. These parents know that the present wild fad will die out as all wild fads do, and that the solid benefits of prohibition will then show up.

There are thousands of people who not only have never drunk any bootleg booze, but have never seen any.

There are thousands of children nine and ten years old who have never seen a drunken man, who do not know what the papers are talking about when they use such words as booze, prohibition, drunkenness, etc. Twenty years ago was there a child who had never seen a drunken man go reeling down the street?

This should be the condition in every community, and would be if the citizens of the respective communities would demand that their officers do their sworn duty. After all, it is a case of community insisting on law enforcement, and law enforcement extends to ridding the drunk man off the street as any other nuisance would be removed.

To go back on the prohibition law in the slightest degree would, in the minds of these thousands of people, be a calamity. They are gladly making the sacrifice of their occasional cool bottle of beer on a summer's evening, their occasional festival or family anniversary, that their children may never know the temptation which their generation knew.

Before being too sure that the nation has gone to pieces because of prohibition, it might be well to consult some of these people. Some of them live on your street.

Or Two Evils, Etc.

The wife of a farmer had a tongue that cut like a knife. One day the minister passed the farmstead and noticed the farmer standing calmly in the midst of a heavy downpour of rain. "Why on earth don't you get indoors?" he queried. "Oh, sir, it's all right," replied the farmer; "I'm sheltering from the storm. Min, I tell ye it's nothing outside but what it is inside."

"Corporations Have No Souls."

This legal maxim was first laid down by Sir Edward Coke in the case of Sutton's Hospital. "They (corporations) cannot commit treason nor be outlawed nor excommunicated, for they have no souls." Lord Thurlow subsequently paraphrased this maxim in his own rough way: "You never expected justice from a corporation, did you? They have neither a soul to lose nor a body to kick."

Smallest Visible Things.

Few persons would guess that the smallest things visible to the eye are the stars. Yet Divers was no doubt correct in declaring that such is the case. Great as many of the stars are in actual magnitude, their distance is so immense that their angular diameter becomes insensible and they approach the condition of geometrical points. The minute disks that they appear to have are spurious, an effect of irradiation.

An Inland Lighthouse.

The lighthouse once off Atlantic City, well out to sea, is now 500 yards inland from the board walk, and surrounded by paved streets and apartment houses. In 50 years the shifting sands have added millions of dollars' worth of land to the northern end of the Island.—Scientific American.

Slaves of the Stomach.

Jerome K. Jerome writes: "We are but the vilest, sorriest slaves of our stomachs. Reach not after morality and righteousness, my friends; watch vigilantly your stomach, and diet it with care and judgment. Then virtue and contentment will come and reign within your heart, unsought by any effort of your own; and you will be a good citizen, a loving husband, and a tender father—a noble, pious man."

Words to Be Avoided.

There are two simple words in our language that have caused more misery than all the plagues of history. They have broken lifelong friendships, set brother against brother, separated lovers and caused children to weep. These poisoned words have sent innocent persons to the gallows and have turned the delectable into a deadly monotony. Think well before you let them pass your lips. They are "They say."—Excelsior.

What Is a Picture Frame?

Picture frames are frequently too ornate. The simpler they are the less they attract attention from the picture itself. They should become a part of the picture and not a separate picture in themselves. Color, however, may be used to advantage and any simple wooden frame may be painted in oil paint to match some tone of the picture. Ordinarily this is better than to have the frame harmonize with the woodwork of the room.

Self-Penalized.

One day in school I had been whispering to the boy behind me. The principal looked over my way and said: "You two boys come up here in these two front seats." I picked up a book and walked up to the front and sat down. Two boys from the back of the room came up also. The principal looked at me rather curiously and then said: "I didn't catch you."—Chicago Journal.

Prehistoric Freight.

When the cargo of a ship was unloaded recently at Portland, Ore., it was discovered that a certain portion, which was supposed to consist of walrus tusks, proved to be the ivory tusks of the mastodon. Crafty Siberian natives had substituted these for the walrus ivory which was ordered. The dealers, however, cheated themselves for in spite of its great age the substitute was well preserved and the large size of the tusks consequently made them more valuable.

Problem in Criticism.

Criticism presents to the creator a problem which is never solved. Criticism is, to the artist, a perpetual presence; or perhaps a ghost which he will not succeed in laying. "If he could satisfy his mind that criticism was a certain thing, a good thing or a bad, a proper presence or an irrelevant, he might psychologically dispose of it. But he cannot."—Waldo Frank.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

Hunters should remember that the period for training dogs expired in Pennsylvania with the month of February. Nevertheless, lots of dog owners are still taking their dogs out to the woods allowing them to run at large and chase game, which is prohibited by law. This same law makes the killing of dogs pursuing game or running at large mandatory upon Game Wardens, Police Officers and Constables. So if you prize your dog, license him, keep him out of the fields and don't train him now.

Another little item that has been overlooked. The trapping season for muskrat, muskrat, opossum, otter, raccoon and skunk expired with February. This law was passed by the last legislature, and some folks seem unacquainted with it. There are fines for this violation too.

There are at least a couple of hundred unlicensed dogs too many running at large in Clearfield. Mayor Kittelberger should get his army to work on them.

Edwin Newman, of Canton, Pa., the oldest Odd Fellow in Pennsylvania both in point of years and years of membership, died at his home Saturday last. He was 99 years old and was initiated in the order in 1845.

They have found a man down in Oklahoma, who at the age of 61, is living with his third wife and is the father of thirty six children, and the end is not yet.

A physician who makes promises which, if fulfilled will completely revolutionize the world, is Dr. Octavio Felix Pedrosa, of Sao Paulo, Brazil. Among the wonders this Brazilian surgeon says he can accomplish are: Bringing the dead back to life. Turning black men into white. Rejuvenation of the aged.

Rendering an operation for appendicitis a bloodless and trivial affair. Many diseases which have heretofore baffled physicians, Dr. Pedrosa says, can be cured.

Dr. Pedrosa, brought with him credentials which showed that he is a graduate of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of London.

The Brazilian says he has been conducting researches for many years during which time he has experimented principally on rats. He says that within a period of fifteen days he has transformed black rats into white rats. He asserts that a negro within thirty days can be transformed into a white man.

He explained that in changing the blacks into whites, he withdraws blood from the left arm, places it in an apparatus, which purifies the blood, and then, after heating the blood again, passes it back into the left arm. He claims that he can kill

SALVATION ARMY TO MAKE ITS APPEAL FOR FUNDS SOON

Quota For This County
Has Been Cut To Sum
That Can Easily Be Had And Should Be.

LET US ALL HELP

The dates of the first annual Home Service Appeal of The Salvation Army were announced today by Captain Watson of the local Salvation Army Corps upon his return from Pittsburgh where he was in conference with Lt. Col. Thos. Stanyon, Divisional Commander of The Salvation Army in Western Penna. and West Virginia, completing preliminary plans for the local appeal. The dates set for the intensive work of the drive are May 2 to 10th, during which time an effort will be made to obtain by public subscriptions the sum of the negro blood cells at the rate of five trillion a day.

Appendicitis, he says, he cures with a vacuum process, whereby he absorbs the wound on the appendix. He claims to have effected eleven successful operations.

Dr. Pedrosa says his purpose in coming to this country is to interest the people here in his apparatus and to establish sanitariums such as he says he is now conducting in Sao Paulo.

You have got to hand it to the Swiss. They find time to do a lot of other worth while things beside drilling holes in the cheese that makes the Tyrol famous. Over in Zurich the other day, a fellow who borrowed a neighbor's books and failed to return them was haled into court and sentenced to pay a fine of the value of the books and go to jail for two days. The court held that "a book is a family utensil, like furniture and is necessary for the welfare of the family." Action like that in these good old United States would fill the jails.

$4,617.00 which amount in accordance with the statement issued by Captain Watson, will take care of the needs of the local Corps of the Army for a period of one year and will fulfill the obligation of Clearfield to assist in the upkeep of The Salvation Army relief homes in the district.

Tribute to Clearfield

In making the announcement of the plans for the campaign after consultation with Col. Stanyon, Captain Watson stated that Col. Stanyon wished to present the following message to the people of Clearfield: "Because of the splendid co-operation and support of the people of Clearfield and other cities and districts in Western Penna. the Salvation Army has been able to conduct its work without being impeded by the necessity of carrying on a continual drive for money. The economic necessity of the time has been kept in mind and the budget for the work of the Army has been cut to a point where only absolute necessities are being taken care of. The money obtained in the coming appeal will be used for the purpose of maintaining the local corps and for the maintenance of the work of the Army in the Bellevue Rescue Home and Maternity Hospital, the Day Nursery and Slum Settlement Post in Pittsburgh, the Fresh Air Camps in West View, Pa., the Industrial Homes, and numerous other relief organizations."

The Salvation Army made a host of friends in Clearfield and the splendid co-operation which Captain Watson has received in his local work is evident from the fact that many prominent local men and women in business, professional and social circles have agreed to serve on the citizens' auxiliary committee which will assist in conducting the local appeal.

What The Army Does
The announcement of the coming appeal for funds for the Salvation Army," said Captain Watson last night in connection with the appeal, "probably brings to the minds of many local people the question, 'What did the Salvation Army do in Western Penna., during the last year?' Answering his own question Captain Watson gave a few examples of the work: 'During the last fiscal year, at the Rescue Home, 111 girls received the attention that only Salvation Army lassies can give; forty-one of these cases were maternal cases. Thirty-six babies were born in the Rescue Home, and ninety eight children cared for. The Slum Settlement Post, Fernando Street, Pittsburgh, took care of 8,209 children; 17,096 meals were given; 599 hours were spent in visitation; 253 cases of sickness were attended to. The Relief Department cared for the needs of poor families with the following services: 44,196 meals; 6,563 lodgings; employment for 442; medical aid to 1,197. Fresh Air camps accommodated fifty mothers; 258 children, sixty other visitors and served 8,367 meals. The Men's Industrial Homes supplied 21,989 beds; served 67,469 meals; cared for 1,130 men. These homes are not only conducted for people of the district in which the home is located but people from all parts of Western Penna. and West Virginia are sent there and cared for by the Army."

Soothing Effect of Garden.
We go out into the garden to take against the world. Our flowers look at us—some call us. We release our from a bind-weed, to another we give water, we note a few seedlings, we stand in admiration before a plant which has come suddenly into bloom; and we have forgotten the world and all our troubles.—John Trevena.

Why Not Own the Envied Super-Six?

Hudson today is priced lower in relation to its worth, than any other motor car, we know.

Only the very earliest Super-Sixes were priced so low. But today's Hudson is infinitely finer in every way than any former Hudson. And remember, every year since it was brought out six years ago Hudson has outsold all other fine cars.

That shows how it has kept supremacy of value from the first.

And consider when you match its new price with others, what Hudson has done to prove ability and enduring quality. Has any other stock car ever shown such rounded performance mastery, as the exclusive Super-Six motor gives Hudson.

Of course, few care to use the full limit of Hudson speed. Few will ever have need for all its power.

But what does count every day of use, is sure, dependable transportation. What does count after months and years of service is the way Hudsons retain their smoothness, quietness and reliable performance.

It means the assurance in your car that you feel in a watch that has served you for years. With Hudson, car troubles are seldom even thought of because of their remoteness.

That is why you will find the maximum satisfaction in the ownership of a Super-Six, which after all is the real test of a car.

It is also the real test of value. And at Hudson's price today what car carries such conviction of worth?

Susan's Secret.

Susan had been put out to service, and her mistress liked the rosy face of the young girl. One day Susan was sent on an errand to town. She was longer than usual, and her mistress stood in the porch as she came through the field. Susan was happy, and her mistress said: "Why, Susan, what a rosy, happy face you have today! You look as if the dew had kissed you." Susan dropped her eyelids, and murmured: "Indeed, ma'am, but that wasn't his name!"

Olive Is Ancient Fruit.

It is doubtful if there are many fruits that have been known to man longer than the olive. Records show it was cultivated by the Egyptians more than 4,000 years ago, and olives and the olive tree are mentioned often in the Bible and all ancient writings. Asia Minor is supposed to have been the original home of the olive. The trees often reach a great height and a very old age—some of them in parts of southern France being nearly 2,000 years old.

Practical Uncle.

The wealthy uncle was talking over the prospects of his nephew with the boy's mother. "How is he doing with his studies?" "Oh, very well. He's very intelligent; he shows a great talent for music, and his manner is very haughty. His teacher thinks he will become a conductor?" "Ah! Indeed!" responded his uncle; "bus or trolley car?"

Well Answered.

A young man once said to Wendell Phillips: "If I had lived in your day I should have been heroic, too." "You sir," said the great man, "are living in time and in God's time and be sure of this, young man, no man could have been heroic then who cannot be so now."

COURT NOTES

They admitted being in the camps but denied having taken any of the articles missing except some provisions. But in the absence of the District Attorney they were sent back to jail.

The Wreckers

By FRANCIS LYNDE

Copyright by Chas. Scribner's Sons

It was after they had all gone away, leaving the big coal yard in silence and darkness, that I got mine, good and hard. Sitting all bunched up in the grab-bucket and waiting for my chance to climb out and make a getaway, the common sense reaction came and saw what I had done. With the best intentions in the world, in trying

They Were All Three After Me.

CHAPTER X

The Man at the Window. Of course, the first thing I did, the morning after that adventure in the coal yard, was to tell the boss all about it, and I was just foxed enough to do it when Mr. Ripley was present. Mr. Norcross didn't say much, and, for that matter, neither did the lawyer, though he did ask the boss a question or two about the real facts in the Midland right-of-way squabble. But I noticed, after that, that our man, Tarbell, was continually turning up at all sorts of times, and in all sorts of odd places, so I took it that Ripley had given him his tip, and that he was sort of body-guarding Mr. Norcross on the quiet, though I am sure, the boss didn't know anything about that part of it—he was such a square fighter himself that he probably wouldn't have stood for it if he had.

Meanwhile, things grew warmer and warmer in the tussle we were making to pull the old Short Line out of the mud; warmer in a number of ways, because, in addition to the fight for the public confidence, we began just then to have a perfect epidemic of wrecks.

The boss turned the material trouble over to Mr. Van Britt and devoted himself pretty strictly to the public side of things. Everywhere, and on every occasion—at dinners at the different chambers of commerce, and public banquets given to this, that, or the other visiting big-wig—he was always ready to get on his feet and tell the people that the true prosperity of the country carried with it the prosperity of the railroads; that the two things were one and inseparable; and that, when it came right down to basic facts, the railroads were really a part of the progress machinery of the country at large and should be regarded, not as alien tax-collectors, but as contributors to the general prosperity and welfare.

By this time, also, Red Tower Consolidated was beginning to find out what it meant to have active competition. The C. S. & W. people were hammering their new plants into working shape, and they were getting the advantage, both of the producers and consumers, hand over fist. Track facilities and yard service were granted freely; and while no discrimination was permitted as against the Red Tower people, the friendly attitude of the road counted for something, as it was bound to.

During those few pre-election weeks the New York end of us seemed to have petered out completely. We heard nothing more from President Dunton, worse than an occasional wire complaint about the number of wrecks we were having, though the stock was still going down, point by point, and, so far as a man up a tree could see, we were making no attempt to show net earnings—were turning all our money into betterments as fast as it came in. I knew that couldn't go on. Without a flurry of some sort, the New Yorkers would never be able to break even, to say nothing of a profit, and I looked every day for a howl that would tear things straight up the back.

I Had Butted In With a Telegram

nobody else's. We fussed over it a lot, and because I most always contrived some excuse to chase out to the Kendrick house at the boss's heels—merely to help Tarbell keep cases on him—there were plenty of chances for the fussing.

It was on one of these chasing runs to "Kendrick" that the roof fell in. The major had gone out somewhere—to the theater, I guess—taking his wife and Maiste Ann, and the boss and Mrs. Sheela were sitting together in the major's den, with a little coal blaze in the basket grate because the nights were beginning to get a bit chilly.

I had butted in with a telegram—which, might just as well have stood over until the next morning, if you want to know. After I had delivered it, Mrs. Sheela gave me that funny little laugh of hers and told me to go hunt in the pantry and see if I could find a piece of pie, and the boss added that if I'd wait, he'd go back to town with me pretty soon.

I found the pie, and ate it in the dining-room, making noise enough about it so that they could know I was there if they wanted to. But they went right on talking, and paid no attention to me.

"Do you know, Sheela"—they had long since got past the "Mr." and "Mrs."—you've been the greatest possible help to me in this rough-house, all the way along, the boss was saying. "You have held me up to the rack, time and again, when I have been ready to throw it all up and let go. Why have you done it?"

I heard the little laugh again, and she said: "It is worth something to have a friend." Odd as it may seem, Graham, I have been singularly poverty-stricken in that respect. And I have wanted to see you succeed. Though you are still calling it merely a "business deal," it is really a mission, you know, crammed full of good things to a struggling world. If you do succeed—and I am sure you are going to—you will leave this community, and hundreds of others, vastly the better for what you are doing and demonstrating.

"But that is a man's point of view," the boss persisted. "How do you get it? You are all woman, you know; and your mixing and mingling—at least, since I have known you—has all been purely social. How do you get the big overlook?"

"I don't know. I was foolish and frivolous once, like most young girls, I suppose. But we, all grown older; and we ought to grow wiser. Besides, the woman has the advantage of the man in one respect; she has time to think and plan and reason things out as a busy man can't have. Your problem has seemed very simple to me, from the very beginning. It asked for a strong man and an honest one. You were to take charge of a piece of property that had been abused and knocked about and used as a means of extortion and oppression, and you were to make it good."

"Again, that is a man's point of view."

"Oh, no," she protested quickly. "There is no sex in ethics. Women are the natural house-cleaners, perhaps, but that isn't saying that a man can't be one, too, if he wants to be."

At this, the boss got up and began to tramp up and down the room; I could hear him. I think he'd been Having the biggest kind of a job to keep him shut up. In this sort of abstract corner, when all the time he was loving her fit to kill, but apparently she had been doing it successfully. There wasn't the faintest breath of sentiment in the air; not the slightest whiff. When she began again, I could somehow feel that she was just in time to prevent his breaking out into all sorts of love-making.

"The time has come, now, when you must take another left out of my book," she said, with just the proper little cooling tang in her voice. "Up to the present you have been hammering your way to the end like a strong man, and that was right. But you have been more or less reckless—and that isn't right or fair or just to a lot of other people."

"The tramping stopped and I heard him say: 'I don't know what you mean.'"

"I mean that matters have come to such a pass now that you can't afford to take any risks—personal risks. If the plan the enemy is trying doesn't work, it will try another and a more desperate one."

"You've been talking to Ripley," he laughed. "Ripley wants me to become a gun-toter and provide myself with a body-guard. I'd look well, wouldn't I? But what do you mean by 'the plan the enemy is now trying'?"

She hesitated a little, and then said: "I shall make no charges, because I have no proof. But I read the newspapers, and Mr. Van Britt tells me something, now and then. You are having a terrible lot of wrecks."

"That is merely bad luck," he rejoined easily.

"Rashness is no part of true courage," she interposed, calmly. "As a private individual you might say that your life is your own, and that you have a perfect right to risk it as you please. But as the general manager of the railroad, with a lot of your friends holding office under you, you can't say that. Besides, you are fighting for a cause, and that cause will stand or fall with you."

"You ought to be a member of this new reform legislature that some of our good friends think is coming up the pike," he chuckled; but she ignored the good-natured gibe and made him listen.

"I was visiting a day or two at the capital last week, and there are influences at work that you don't know about. If the opposition can't make your administration a failure, it won't hesitate to get rid of you in the easiest way that offers."

There was silence in the major's den for a minute or so, and then the boss said:

"As usual, you know more than you are willing to tell me."

Timing Lightning.

By means of a photograph made with a vibrating lens, a British scientist has calculated the time of a lightning flash. It comes out one-nineteenth of a second. The calculation is based upon the multiple image in the photographs and the rate of vibration of the lens. The time applies, of course, only to the particular flash that was photographed.

OBITUARY NOTICE

Mrs. M. Belle Woodside, daughter of John R. and Hannah Johnson McClellan and wife of Dr. H. A. Woodside was born in Pike Township, Clearfield County, February 12, 1876, and died at her home in Clearfield, Pa., March 10th, 1922 of pneumonia following La Grippe.

Her paternal and maternal grandparents were among the pioneer settlers of Clearfield County. She attended the public schools of Pike Twp., Lumber City and Curwensville and later taught in the public schools of Clearfield County for several years and was married to Dr. Woodside who was then practicing in Lumber City, in April, 1900. To this union was born two sons, Wendell, who is now attending Bucknell University, and Hobart who preceded his mother to the beyond in October, 1919.

Dr. and Mrs. Woodside resided in Lumber City, until December 1919, when they moved to Clearfield, where they resided at the time of her demise. Burial was made in Hillcrest Cemetery, beside her son Hobart, March 13, 1922.

She was a consistent member of the Methodist Episcopal church at Lumber City and upon her removal to Clearfield her membership was transferred to Trinity M. E. Church where her activities endeared her to a large circle of friends among whom she worked.

Her funeral service was conducted by her pastor, Rev. Dr. W. W. Hartman, who has since followed her through the "Valley of the shadow" and into the "gates of the Eternal City." Rev. W. R. Jones, of Lumber City, her former pastor assisted in the service.

A Successful Man

Among the notable professional men of this country who achieved great success along strictly legitimate lines was Dr. R. V. Pierce. Devoting his attention to the specialty of women's diseases, he became a recognized authority in that line.

Over fifty years ago this noted physician gave to the world a Prescription which has never been equaled for the weakness of women. Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., long since found out what is naturally best for women's diseases. He learned it all thru treating thousands of cases. The result of his studies was a medicine called Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This medicine is made of vegetable growths that nature surely intended for backbone, headache, weakening pains, and for the many disorders common to women in all ages of life. Women who take this standard remedy know that in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription they are getting a safe woman's tonic so good that druggists everywhere sell it in both tablet and fluid form. Have You A Clock That Won't Keep Time?

If you have, bring it here and we'll have a try at making it go. Several folks have done that very thing during the time we have been in business and found that we made clocks go that had been given up as hopeless long ago.

We've been making clocks go that were thought hopeless and now we can take a shot at yours and if we don't make it go, we'll admit we are stumped.

They Come From Cleveland

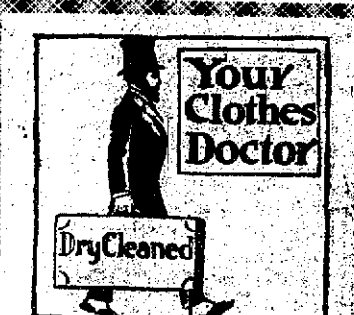

Some time ago there was a lady at the local hospital. Her home was in Cleveland, Ohio. The other day we received some clothing from her to be cleaned, stating that our work was so good that she wanted it repeated.

There's a lot of study in that occurrence.
